

A Roadmap to NEXT PRACTICES in Customer Experience

In today's marketplace,
Customer Experience is a major source of competitive differentiation and strategic advantage, *but...

Our rapidly changing marketplace shifts customer expectations, challenges, wants and desires

Emerging Technologies enable new ways to create compelling customer experiences

Customer experiences need to evolve to stay in sync or lose relevance

Our Programs provide a Psycho-Economic Framework to create Next Practices

and

the Mentoring
to take control

Customer Experience

A Roadmap to NEXT PRACTICES

Next Practices for Experiences today's Customers find meaningful and compelling

Social Dynamics/Emerging Technology

Employee Engagement/Partner Alignment

Customer Experience Throughout the Value Chain

Best Practices - Making them Better

A Psycho-economic Framework

Shifting Priorities of Today's Customers

The Business Case for Customer Experience

*One third of Today's
Customer Experience
Initiatives don't reach their full potential*

Why Next Practices are Essential

- Loyalty is down—Churn is up! (with notable exceptions)
- Customer trust in Brands, Companies and Products has declined
- Customer buying patterns and priorities have shifted
- Rapid change makes Mindshare more important than Market Share
- Customer Engagement is critical to sustainable profits but is wanting
- Employee engagement is essential but disengagement is high
- Social Media has shifted influence, decision-making and relationships
- Customers adopt emerging technologies faster than businesses deploy strategies
- Customer experiences are psychological but most initiatives lack a deliberate framework
- Change and innovation creates new challenges, expectation and desires for customers

The Market Share to MindShare Shift

The pursuit of market share is now a battle with competitors. It results in low margins and encourages customer churn.

In contrast, mindshare is about engaging customers in fulfilling experiences and outcomes. Business success requires winning mindshare. Without mindshare customers indifferently buy “utility” or convenience. Mindshare increases influence, desire, demand and advocacy.

Our Next Practices programs engages participants in experiences that will help them see and seize the potential of winning mindshare—Customer Experience Next Practices.

Programs are Experiential

We share our experiences, expertise and comprehensive framework...

Who Should Attend

All aspects of an organization impact the customer experience:

Strategists - embrace the market share to mindshare shift

Marketers - design and execute mindshare strategies

Sales - adopt new ways to interact and influence customers

IT - provide a relevant, collaborative end-to-end platform

Service and Support - proactively promote positive customer experiences

HR/Talent Management - engage employees in overlapping and adaptive roles

Partners and Channels - ensure alignment with mission and process

Next Practice programs are designed for business leaders from all functional units within a company. To facilitate innovation and alignment across these units, people representing as many functional units as possible are encouraged to participate. Programs are offered to cross-corporate organizations or customized for individual corporations.

Program Leaders

Del Langdon, Emperia, LLC

Pragmatics of Successful Customer Experience Initiatives

Strategy-driven change in F1000 companies

Implementation of customer experience initiatives in financial services, healthcare, technology and entertainment

Experience and expertise in aligning and innovating business practices

Outside-in thought leader and author

link to full bio

John I. Todor, Ph.D., MindShift Innovation

Inside the heads of Customers and Employees

Business strategist, mentor and psychologist

Mindshift innovation processes to help executives turn the challenges of change into new possibilities to create and deliver value to customers

Methods for taking innovation to market

Speaker and author on Winning Mindshare and the psychology of the customer experience.

link to full bio

Our Programs Span the Spectrum

Programs are offered to cross-corporate organizations or customized to specific companies.

Webinars

Introductions to Next Practices

Workshops

Programs designed to the audience

Executive Bootcamps

Building Roadmaps for Next Practices

Mentoring

On-going guidance

Consulting

Assistance in development and implementation

Contact Us

To book programs or discuss program customization contact:

Del Langdon

Emperia, LLC

925-253-3157

del.langdon@emperiallc.com

www.emeriallc.com

John I. Todor, Ph.D.

MindShift Innovation

925-372-0251

johnt@mindshifti.com

www.mindshifti.com